

About Town

And Country

By TIMOTHEUS T.

Dayton Is a Clean City With Good Attitude by Citizens

DAYTON, OHIO, is a beautiful city. I had never been there until the past week-end.

Greater Dayton has a population of about a half million people, a cab driver said. The Sunday newspaper there said 94,000 are employed in factories.

Dayton has wide streets, with traffic well-planned. In the heart of the downtown section traffic moved well.

I did quite a bit of looking, both walking around uptown and when riding. The streets and sidewalks were clean. I looked for evidences of expectorations and did not see any. No paper flying about. No paper in the gutters. Harrisburg and other towns around would do well to copy after Dayton.

"Help Dayton to Be the Cleanest City in the United States," said signs on waste cans on the streets.

The show windows of the stores were clean. The fronts of the buildings looked well-kept. People we watched walking down the street all looked like they were going somewhere.

It is a city where you can see has been developed a fine attitude by its citizenry.

We drove for miles through built-up sections where before World War II was nothing but open field. A cab driver said that one long industrial section was the site of an air base in World War II.

"Now there are fifty industries on it," a cab driver said, pointing to plant after plant.

Largest employer in Dayton is National Cash Register, I was told. Dayton Rubber is next.

DAYTON PEOPLE are a lot like people here and there and all over. One example was this: There were two movie theatres just a few yards from the hotel in which we stayed. One was showing Elizabeth Taylor in "Raintree County," a picture which is getting the plaudits of the critics. Right across the street was a movie house showing "Old Yeller." The first theatre was doing a good business but there was a line three-fourths of a block long, double file, waiting to get in to see the second picture.

The men who went to Dayton to make the pitch for Saline county deserve more praise than we have room for in this paper. They all were sincere, hard-working groups dedicated to doing all they could do to revive the site here for the rubber plant.

I don't know how much the venture cost but I'd estimate around $1,500 with just about all of it coming out of the pockets of the individuals who made the trip. Major item of cost was telephone calls. They were being made all hours—several to Washington, D. C., several to New York City, a half dozen to St. Louis and Indianapolis, lots to Chicago, a score or more to Southern Illinois University for the community development staff to pick up certain pieces of statistical information needed and the call back when it was secured. Many were long calls, discussing the situation with persons who might help. And there was Kenny Gray, who made many calls himself from Washington, then hopped a plane to Dayton to spend most of Sunday and all day Monday. And all the resources of Southern Illinois University made available.

The delegation succeeded in what it went to do. The site was brought to life. It is still in critical condition but alive.

House Committee Tentatively Votes Highway Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Public Works Committee tentatively approved legislation Tuesday authorizing $2,035,000,000 for the basic federal highway program for fiscal years 1960 and 1961.

The bill includes $1,825,000,000 in federal aid for primary and secondary roads and urban extension. These funds are matched equally by the states.

Also included is 205 million dollars for forest roads and trails, national park roads, federal parkways and roads on Indian and public lands.

The bill does not contain money for the multi-billion interstate highway system, financed separately from a trust fund.

A final vote on the bill was postponed until March 6 because of the illness of Rep. J. Harry McGregor (R-Ohio). McGregor is expected to be present on that date.

Predicts Senate Passage of Postal Rates, Pay Increases by Nightfall

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney predicted today the Senate will approve higher postal rates and pay raises for postal employees by nightfall after a "big fight" on a key provision. The Oklahoma Democrat said there probably would be a "fairly close" vote on his amendment to knock out a proposed five-cent stamp for out-of-town letters.

"If the Republicans all stand together," he admitted, "we can lose." Monroney, a member of the Senate Post Office Committee, is a leader in the fight to hold any postal raise to a four-cent stamp for both local and out-of-town first class mail. It now requires a three-cent stamp. He expected the support of all but a handful of Democrats.

Tack on Pay Raise
Once details of the rate bill have been thrashed out a move is slated to tack on a committee.

Jaycees to Open Operation Hambone Project Tomorrow

The Harrisburg Junior Chamber of Commerce will begin "Operation Hambone" Thursday, which will continue through Saturday until 5:15 p. m. at which time a hog will be given away to the person guessing closest to its weight.

The hog will be on display on the square Thursday, Friday and Saturday and Jaycee members will sell tickets at 50 cents or three for one dollar, the buyers to guess the weight of the hog. A consolation prize will be a 12-pound ham.

Money raised by the Jaycees through this annual project will be used for their Christmas fund and for other civic promotions by the Junior Chamber of Commerce members.

The Jaycees are being assisted in the project by the Smith Packing Co., the Coca-Cola Bottling company, radio station WEBQ, television station WSIL, The Daily Register and the Harrisburg Ice Co., which will cut up the hog for the winner and provide six months storage for the meat.

The Jaycees will have the Coca-Cola wagon on the square during the three days from which they will sell hot dogs, Coca-Cola and coffee. They are asking the public patronage in their effort to raise funds for their projects.

approved measure providing a 7.1-2 per cent $20 million dollar annual pay raise for some 500,000 postal employees.

Monroney predicted an expected move by Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan.) to eliminate a $240 cost-of-living bonus for low-scale employees would be "beaten overwhelming." He voiced certainty the Senate would vote to tie the pay and rate raises together. He said it also was possible approval might come by nightfall on another bill to raise the pay of about a million "white collar" civil service workers by 7.1-2 per cent. The civil service measure was scheduled for consideration after the postal bill is disposed of.

The House Post Office Committee Tuesday approved pay raises totaling nearly one billion dollars for about 1,500,000 postal and "white collar" government workers, including legislative and judicial employees. This compared with about $21 million dollars the two Senate pay measures would cost. The House postal raises would range from 10 to 18 per cent and the white collar civil service increase would average 11 per cent.

Rep. Edward H. Rees (R-Kan.), senior GOP member of the House committee, predicted President Eisenhower would veto raises of the size provided in the House bill. He said he thought the President might go along with a 7.1-2 per cent raise.

The President vetoed a government pay raise measure last year but proposed a six per cent increase this year.

Upturn In Economy Will Take Some Time, Eisenhower Says

Asks Public to Have Faith in His Confidence

President Says Tax Cut Possible, But Only If Needed

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today it will take some time to stop the business recession but he advised the nation to abide in his confidence that there will be an upturn by mid-year.

The President said the development of an upturn naturally would be a slow, gradual process. He remained confident that basic improvement in business and employment conditions would be evident by the middle of the year.

In a news conference the President made these other major points:

—He strongly defended Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson and said he had no intention of asking Benson to resign. He said it is his business alone—not congressmen's—who is in his Cabinet.

—He denied a story published in Time magazine today that the cumulative effect of his illnesses since 1955 had forced him to reduce his workload by as much as 25 per cent. The President chuckled and said he had never heard of such a thing.

—He declined to express an opinion on whether Richard A. Mack of the Federal Communications Commission should resign. The President said that as long as the attorney general was in the process of investigating the controversy involving Mack, he himself had no judgment to pass at the present time.

—He said he still believed in the basic merits of the natural gas bill that he recommended last year, but that he hoped there would be no repetition of the recent fund-raising incident involving J. H. Porter, Republican national committeeman from Texas. The proposed bill would ease federal regulation of natural gas prices.

In discussing the sagging economy and possible methods of pepping it up, the President said a reduction in taxes was still a possibility in event of a deepening of the economic decline, but he said he did not want to consider a tax cut unless it proved absolutely necessary to bring about an upturn.

He said it is desirable to get as much money as possible into the federal purse because of the increased federal spending expected this year.

National Park Official to Visit Shawneetown

Ask Historical Data on Old Town To Be Presented

A representative of the National Park Service will visit Shawneetown this spring in an inspection of midwestern historical sites, it has been revealed by George M. Scherrer of Shawneetown, past president of the Shawnee Hills Recreation Association.

Mr. Scherrer, who has done a vast amount of correspondence designed to have the historical parts of Old Shawneetown made into a National Park, received a letter last week from Daniel J. Tobin, regional director of the National Park Service, Region Five, Philadelphia, stating that the visitor will be Charles E. Shedd Jr., staff historian assigned to his office.

Mr. Scherrer suggested that people in this area who have historical facts and data on Old Shawneetown to supply the information to Louis Aaron at Harrisburg or Mrs. Opal Dietz at Shawneetown so they will have all information available when Mr. Shedd arrives. The letter to Mr. Scherrer, dated Feb. 21, said:

"Thank you for your letter of Feb. 15 concerning the resolution passed by the Shawnee Hills Recreation Association requesting the co-operation of the National Park Service in historical preservation and recreational development in Shawneetown and vicinity. Mr. Ray Mittendorf of Metropolis, Ill., (present SHRA president) also has requested advisory help on behalf of the association and we are forwarding to him a copy of this letter."

"We will be pleased to provide the requested advisory assistance to the fullest extent permitted by available funds and personnel. Mr. Charles E. Shedd Jr., staff historian assigned to this office, plans to visit a number of midwestern historical sites this spring and he would be happy to go to Shawneetown at that time and discuss the proposed development with you and other interested individuals or groups."

"If this is agreeable to you, we will notify you later as to the time Mr. Shedd expects to be in your vicinity in order that a meeting may be arranged. In the mean time we will contact persons named in your letter who can provide the necessary historical data on Shawneetown."

Barter, Triangle, Simonds Submit Low Road Bids

The Triangle Construction Co. of Kankakee, Ill., has submitted a low bid of $733,925 for construction of 5.13 miles of concrete base course widening and 2.45 miles of concrete base course on U. S. Route 45 from Carrier Mills to approximately one mile southwest of Stonefort.

This project was submitted to contractors in January but the bids were rejected as too high.

The J. D. Barter Construction Co. of Harrisburg and the E. T. Simonds Construction Co. of Carbondale have submitted a joint low bid of $757,777 for construction of 2.89 miles of concrete pavement on E. A. Route 14 from Crainville Road to approximately one-fourth mile east of Illinois Route 148 in Williamson county.

E. T. Simonds has a low bid of $385,425 for 1.64 miles of concrete pavement on Illinois Route 34 from approximately one mile east of Benton southwesterly.

Franklin Asphalt Co. of Benton's bid of $117,458 was low for intermittent bituminous surface treatment of 50.53 miles of southern Illinois road which includes work on Illinois Route 142 in Equality.

These bids were among those received Tuesday at Springfield for $17,000,000 in projects in 48 Illinois counties. They must be approved by the state division of highways before contracts are awarded.

Congressional Democrats Shrug Off High Pressure Aid Rally

President Hits Opponents as 'Ostrich-Like'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some Democratic congressional leaders today shrugged off as high pressure salesmanship President Eisenhower's giant bipartisan rally in support of foreign aid.

They said it won't change a single vote in Congress.

Foreign aid supporters were given another jolt by the State Department's disclosure Tuesday night that France used U. S.-made Corsair fighter planes provided under the Mutual Security Program in the bombing raid on a Tunisian village Feb. 8.

Informed sources said the United States government has warned France against the use of any further weapons provided under the program on Tunisian targets.

Senate Assistant Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said the administration's call for spending nearly four billion dollars on economic and military assistance is "entirely too much."

"It can be cut substantially—at least 25 per cent," the Montana Democrat said.

Other key Democrats said bluntly Eisenhower was ignoring political realities posed in asking Congress to commit the United States to vast expenditures abroad while the domestic economy is sagging and individual industries are being hurt by foreign trade and tariff policies.

The President climaxed a day-long talkathon Tuesday on selling his foreign aid plan to Americans by denouncing its opponents as "ostrich-like." He said the Mutual Security Program was just as "urgent" as mobilizing the ballistic missiles effort to keep peace in the world and resist Communist aggression.

The President's talk followed others by former President Truman, Adlai E. Stevenson and other Democratic and Republican speakers to the rostrum before about 1,300 leaders from across the nation.

Ag Department Estimates Per Capita Income for Farmers $993

Net Income Up, Mostly by Decrease in Farm Population

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department today estimated per capita income of farmers in 1957 was a record $993, up 10 per cent from the $902 calculated for 1956.

This sharp per capita increase was accounted for almost wholly by a decrease in farm population. Preliminary estimates in the department's publication, "The Demand and Price Situation," show farmers' net realized income for 1957 totaled $11,500,000,000, down 4 per cent from 1956 net farm income. A substantial increase in inventories of commodities held on farms at the end of the year raised farmers' total net income for 1957 to $12,100,000,000.

The department said the decline in realized net income—cash money left after production expenses are paid—"was more than had been anticipated previously."

The record per capita income was figured by dividing the farm population of 20,396,000 down from 22,257,000 in 1956; into a total farm income, derived from both farm and non-farm sources, of $20,000,000,000.

This total income included $11,500,000,000 realized net income 600 million dollars in inventory changes, $1,800,000,000 paid in wages to hired hands on farms, and $6,300,000,000 received by farm people from non-farm sources.

The realized net income included about one billion dollars in direct payments from the government. These payments were for participation in the soil bank, wool, agricultural conservation, and sugar programs.

The per capita income of farmers from farm sources only was $648, compared with $601 in 1956. The per capita income from non-farm sources—mostly from off-farm jobs—was $309 in 1957. In 1956, it was $301.

The department also released the number of farms by states in 1957. It showed the long-time downward trend in number of farms continued—the estimated 4,855,800 farms in operation last year represented a 2.3 per cent decrease from 1956. The department also estimated there will be about 4,750,000 farms operated in 1958.

Farms in operation in 1958 include:

Indiana 154,000; Illinois 180,000.

Embarrassment Of Riches

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

Sometimes when a politician is busy tugging off his own party's virtues he says: "Why, we have a score or more of men who would make good presidential candidates."

As in other fields, however, in politics there is such a thing as an embarrassment of riches. This is a difficulty that may be said to be afflicting the Democratic party today as it looks ahead to the 1960 presidential race.

Quite a few names are entered in the early season book: Sen.
John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts,
Gov. Robert Meyer of New Jersey,
Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas,
Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri,
Gov. Mennen Williams of Michigan.

Even those sturdy entries in former campaigns, Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver, are not quite put beyond the pale in the warm-up talk.

Of those listed, Kennedy is currently the majority choice of the Democratic rank and file sampled in opinion polls. Kefauver, whose name seems to have registered on the public mind like a washing machine label, stands second even though he twice has tried for and lost the nomination.

Leading party powers in key states, though, have evidently not made a preliminary selection. They toss out many names for study.
And this multiplicity of candidates effectively blocks, at this stage,
a serious build-up for any man.

Admittedly it is still early. Anybody whose head showed above the pack today might have to take some heavy fire. Even Stevenson, who appeared to be all alone in the early 1956 figuring, encountered unexpected battle from a tireless Kefauver.

Yet it isn't too soon for a serious candidate to cultivate quietly the real sources of strength—
the big state leaders who control or influence the huge delegations which can exert decisive effect
even before a convention begins.

Without that early groundwork,
a candidate could awake a year
hence and find that the nomination parade already has passed by, though the decision still would be a year off. Barring a remarkable recovery, his only hopes then would be a genuine draft, a rare event, or a bolt from the blue as a compromise choice. But this would be a pretty chancy approach for a man of purpose.

It can't be too long before the candidates who fit that description begin to separate themselves from the fellows who are just trusting to luck.

Women at Work

If any American males still are hanging onto that old one which reads "woman's place is in the home," they'd better let go.

Today, with a total U. S. labor force close to 68 million strong, women hold almost a third of the jobs—22 million.

Indeed, the Department of Commerce forecasts that by 1975 the number may reach 33 million, matching the country's total labor force in 1905.

The present total of working men
is eight times that found in 1880 when women still were mostly in the home. Today's figures are even more astonishing when it is realized that of all American women aged 45 to 64, some 42 per cent are in the labor force. And this

Let's stop kidding ourselves.
men. The days of home-baked bread, home-laundried shirts, etc., are gone forever. We'd just better be thankful we can still get an occasional home-cooked meal.

"We Don't Seem to Be Moving"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
He Doesn't React To Public Reaction As He Used To; As A Result Jim Hagerty's Headaches Increase; Senator
Smith Of Maine Tells Rich
Texans Where To Get Off.

WASHINGTON — Newsmen
covering the President were a bit rough with Jim Hagerty over his 3,000-mile detour to take Mamie and two friends to Elizabeth Arden's slimming resort in Arizona. But you can't entirely blame Jim. The astute and agile White House press secretary has been having one of the roughest times of his five years in office.

Reason is that his boss has been more crotchety of late and much less concerned about public opinion. For a long time
Gen. Eisenhower was more hep to public relations than any recent President, and completely agreeable to Hagerty's suggestions. But lately he hasn't been "perhaps it's because this is his last term and he's tired of worrying too much about what the public thinks."

Hagerty was fully aware of the bad public reaction to taking Mamie and sister-in-law with Mrs. Ellis Slater on a slimming detour for which commercial airlines charge $1,200. But he had nothing to say about it.

He knew of course that Mrs.
Gordon Moore, the President's sister-in-law, was right in the public eye as a result of Col.
Moore's name being involved in the congressional investigation of Channel 10 in Miami. Col. Moore has also been mentioned in connection with the CAB award of a route to his old firm, Trans-Caribbean Air Lines, and in connection with deals with Dominican Dictator Trujillo.

Mrs. Ellis Slater is also not the most politic guest to take on a free trip, because her husband,
former head of Frankfurt Distriberies, a Seagram's subsidiary, is given credit for helping influence
the oil leasing of the Lacassine Wildlife Refuge in Louisiana. This lease was given by the Eisenhower administration to Slater's subsidiary company, Frankfurt Oil Co., and set a new precedent for oil leasing on government wildlife preserves. Prior to this, Democrats Harold Ickes and Oscar Chapman, as secretaries of the Interior, had zealously refused to permit oil companies to lease game refuges.

Republican subordinates in the Interior Department also vigorously opposed opening up the Lacassine preserve to Slater's oil company but they were overruled from on top.

Ellis Slater contributed $2,500
to Eisenhower's reelection campaign last year and has been one of his closest bridge-playing partners. He was with him most of the time at Thomasville, and is a member of the exclusive group which built the Augusta golf quarters for the President at no expense to him.

Mrs. Elizabeth Arden, who is giving Mamie and friends the non-paying guest treatment at her Arizona slimming resort, also contributed $2,500 to Ike in 1956.

NOT AFRAID OF TEXANS

The reason why forthright Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine quietly resigned from the GOP Senate Campaign committee over the $100,000 from that Texas Joe Martin dinner was very simple. She remembered how Texas money had reached all the way up to Maine and bank-rolled an opponent to run against her in the Republican primary in 1954.

He was Robert L. Jones, who received contributions from Texas oil barons including Douglas Marshall, son-in-law of Roy Cullen. Another Cullen son-in-law, Corbin Robertson, was a sponsor of the dinner for Joe Martin, also a sponsor for a similar dinner given to Democrat Lyndon Johnson. Mrs. Smith also knew that Vic Johnson, who really runs the GOP Senate Campaign committee for the reelection of senators,
is hand-in-glove with Texas oil barons and was suspected of financing opposition to her.

That's why Mrs. Smith not only resigned from the committee
but remarked privately to friends:

"Those rich Texans not only want to keep their money through oil depletion allowances and make the rest of us pay extra taxes, but they also send their money all over the country to defeat senators who don't agree with them. They want to make the Senate of the United States a rubber-stamp for Texas."

TRUMAN GO-ROUND

Harry Truman speeded up his recent speech so much to get within his allotted TV time that most people didn't notice an indirect but deliberate crack he took at Sen. Lyndon Johnson and Speaker Sam Rayburn's boycott
of the Democratic Advisory committee. Truman went out of his way to quote from the committee's policies which Johnson and Rayburn have refused to participate in.

Adlai Stevenson made one of the best speeches of his career at the big Democratic pow-wow. Only trouble was that half of the Democrats present were listening to boring platitudes from Rayburn and Johnson in the other banquet room... net impression you got from the big Democratic shindig was that Adlai Stevenson is still head and shoulders above the other candidates, but he can never be elected for one very simple reason—Old-line Democratic leaders won't get out and work for him.

Here are some of the Trumanisms that sent Democrats almost rolling in the aisles. "This administration is acting like an overbearing bantam with a glass eye." "What are the unemployed betting on? More important, what are they betting with?"
"They cut out the stream pollution program. Let 'em drink dirty water, they said. The Republicans buy bottled water anyway." "This administration had a lot of trouble getting the satellite off the ground. It had no trouble shooting the cost of living into outer space."

"Whenever the press quits accusing me, then I know I'm in the wrong pew." Chairman Ed Foley, introducing Truman, said:
"You were never contradicted by a cabinet member one week and then went quail shooting with him the next week."

Maynard Cannon Is Candidate for County Clerk

Maynard Cannon

Maynard Cannon has formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for County Clerk of Saline county, and is now actively engaged in campaigning for the nomination, so far as his duties as County Treasurer will permit.

Mr. Cannon is a native of Harrisburg, and is well known for various reasons, including the fact that he is the tallest man in the county, he circulated over the entire county for 14 years as a Pepsi Cola distributor and he has for the past four years been County Treasurer, where he has met practically every taxpayer in the county.

He is the son of Mrs. Clara
Hutchinson Cannon and the late Jesse Cannon who was killed while working at Wasson I mine in 1939.

Charles (Buck) Cannon, owner
of Midway Bar-B-Q is his brother,
and he has three sisters: Mrs.
James (Mary) Hindmarsh, Mrs.
Earl (Jane) Mings and Mrs. Grant (Norma) Mings.

Mr. Cannon was graduated from HTHS in 1933. He was married in 1938 to the former Helen McGuire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey McGuire of Harrisburg, and they have one son Edwin, who is a 7th grade student at Harrisburg Junior high school.

Mr. Cannon is a member of the McKinley Avenue Baptist church, where he is a deacon, a Sunday school teacher, and active other work in activities of the church.

SNEAK ATTACK TARGETS?—The U. S. Navy, according to Rep. Clarence Cannon (D-Mo.) has issued a report warning that Russia could use missile ships disguised as merchant vessels to stage a "decisive" atomic attack on this country. Cannon, chairman of the House Appropriations committee, said such ships could rain devastation on any U. S. city within 550 miles (white areas on Newsmag) of either coast. Forty-three of the nation's biggest cities and an estimated 85 per cent of the country's vital industry are located less than 500 miles from the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. Cannon said there normally were about 75 unidentified ships within 500 miles of the U. S. coast at any given time.

Rotary President
To Visit St. Louis
Area Clubs Mar. 10

Give Accent to
The Traveler

Charles G. Tennent

C. R. Gardner, president of the Harrisburg Rotary club, announced today that Charles G. Tennent, president of Rotary International, will make his "official call" to St. Louis area Rotarians at a dinner meeting to be held Thursday evening, March 13, at the Hotel Statler-Hilton.

Rotary International is comprised of more than 9,600 clubs in 108 countries of the world with a membership of over 450,000. Host club to the meeting will be the Rotary club of St. Louis, Club 11, organized in 1910. Also participating in the occasion will be Rotary clubs of the St. Louis area in Missouri and Illinois.

President Tennent has just completed a 30,000 mile trip, visiting Rotary clubs of 25 countries in Europe, Africa, South and Central America. A horticulturist by profession, Tennent is proprietor of the Tennent Nurseries in Asheville, North Carolina. He was born in Asheville and was graduated from the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill.

Shoals Under Repair

MILL SHOALS, Ill. —Officials say a sagging bridge on U. S. 45 in southern Illinois is expected to be out of service another three to four days while repairs are made.

The bridge which spans Skillet Fork Creek is near Mill Shoals in the extreme northwest tip of White County. It was closed Saturday afternoon when a six-inch sag was discovered in the floor.

Most north and southbound traffic is being re-routed over Ill. 142.

CHICAGO —There hasn't been anything like it in men's fashions since the court of Charles II.

The powdered wig is gone, and so is the horse-drawn coach that fetched mild to the evening's festivities. But the accent on men's fashions in '58 is still on the traveling man whether propelled by a sports car or a space vehicle.

Displays at the 40th annual convention of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers at Chicago show that man is shaking off the conservative Ivy League tradition and putting on the flamboyancy of the space age.

Man will travel light this year. Space-minded moderns may want a lame aluminum dinner jacket with matching cummerbund and tie, satin lapel and satin piped pockets. There's even a pressed paper suit in the experimental stage for the man who wants to wear his years lightly. Also bolero jackets.

For the sports car crowd there are waist length camel's hair capes, extravagant paisley shirts and fur caps right out of the Don Cossack chorus.

Sherlock Holmes cape coats, Scotland Yard checked hats, and black evening capes with red satin linings, fancy dressed clothes with delicate brocade woven into black, red, green or blue on white, all are available.

Initiated Into
Honorary Fraternity

Michael Bacon, Harrisburg, sophomore at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn., has been tapped and initiated into Skull and Bones, honorary pre-med fraternity. The initiation banquet was held in Nashville Thursday evening and Dr. Lee Williams, head of the Vanderbilt hospital, was the speaker for the meeting.

Schedule Given for Medical and Dental Exams for School Children

The new Illinois State law governing medical and dental examinations of school children requires that these examinations be given prior to enrollment in kindergarten, in fourth grade and in the eighth grade. With the recommendation of the Medical Advisory committee, Dental Advisory committee, all other local doctors and dentists not on the advisory committees, and the approval and co-operation of the administration which includes the principals of all schools in the program, an attempt is being made to stagger the medical and dental examinations in the Harrisburg Public schools.

As indicated in the first paragraph kindergarten children, fourth and eighth graders will now participate in place of the first and fifth graders.

All incoming kindergarten children for the 1958-59 school year and all present third graders should go immediately if they are in or will be in the McKinley school. Medical and dental forms are in the respective doctors' offices for use. After the health service, which is done on a private pay basis, the reports should be sent to the present teacher. Incoming kindergarten reports should be sent to the school nurse at Junior high by mail or released in person by the parent to the nurse in her office.

During March all incoming kindergarten children and present third graders in the Logan, Bayliss and Dorris Heights schools should have their medical and dental examinations. In April incoming kindergarten children and present third graders in the Logan, Bayliss and Dorris Heights schools should have their medical and dental examinations.

GE Abandons Price Fixing

NEW YORK (UP)—General Electric Co. today abandoned fair trade price fixing on its small appliances. The move is expected to bring price cuts by many dealers on radios, toasters, mixers, irons, clocks and other small GE home appliances.

The company, long one of the strongest backers of the policy under which manufacturers set the retail price of their goods, has sent letters to its dealers announcing the policy reversal.

General Electric's housewares and radio receiver division has been spending $500,000 to a million dollars a year in a losing fight to enforce fair trade through court actions.

One of its biggest competitors, Westinghouse, abandoned fair trade in 1955. Many other firms have given it up. However, Sunbeam Corp., the toastmaster division of McGraw-Edison Co., and Revere Copper and Brass Co. still set retail prices for their appliances.

Splash Guard Law Ruled Illegal By Federal Judges

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—A special panel of three federal judges today found the controversial Illinois splash guard law for trucks to be in violation of the federal Constitution.

The law had been challenged by a group of out-of-state trucking firms on grounds it violated the commerce clause of the Constitution by imposing on them "unreasonable" burdens.

The three-judge panel ruled that the trucking firms which brought the suit were "entitled to a decree permanently enjoining" enforcement of the law.

The case was heard last month by Judges Charles G. Briggie, of the District Court at Springfield, J. Earl Major, of the U. S. Court of Appeals in Chicago, and Fred G. Mercer, of the District Court at Peoria.

H. H. Holleman, 83, Retired Omaha Merchant, Dies in VA Hospital

Henry Homer Holleman, 83, a retired merchant of Omaha, died in the Veterans' hospital at Marion Tuesday night. The body will lie in state at the family home in Omaha and funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. Thursday in the Methodist church, there. Rev. Claire Clark and Rev. Eula D. Sanders will officiate and burial will be in the Palestine No. 2 cemetery. Mr. Holleman is survived by his wife, Flora, and one granddaughter, Miss Elizabeth Ann Holleman of Eldorado. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American war.

Phone Lines Burn

Some telephone lines burned during the noon hour Tuesday when they caught fire from the blaze of an old abandoned barn at 1415 South Holland street. Fire Chief L. G. Martin said the origin of the fire had not been determined.

Wife of Attorney John Logan Dies at Benton

Mrs. Ellen Logan, 72, wife of Attorney John A. Logan, died in her home at Benton Tuesday noon. The body is in the care of the Drake funeral home in Benton and funeral plans have not been completed.

Rites Today for 100-Year-Old White County Minister

Miss Minnie Bishop, 415 West South street, Harrisburg, received word Tuesday that the Rev. W. J. Smith, her brother-in-law, had died at the Veterans' hospital in Danville Sunday night. He had been in the hospital at Danville since 1948. Born in Shawnee town, son of the late Rev. Bryant and Martha Smith, he would have been 101 years old March 8.

Funeral services were held at 2 p. m. today at the Kittinger funeral home in Carmi and burial was in the Carmi cemetery. Rev. Smith served with the U. S. Army in the Spanish-American war with the rank of lieutenant. He had also been pastor for several Methodist churches in the A. M. E. conference and was known throughout Southern Illinois.

He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Jennie Bishop, in the family home at Carmi; his son, Roy Smith, St. Louis, Mo., and his daughters, Mrs. Artie Weekley, Carmi, and Mrs. Loretta Whitworth, St. Louis, Mo. Two daughters, Mrs. Ora May Cantrell and Mrs. Mazie Carter preceded him in death.

Mamie's Treatment at Elizabeth Arden Resort 'On the Cuff' as Special Guest

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UP)—Elizabeth Arden's Maine Chance resort where privacy is as important as the beauty and health treatments for some of America's more famed and wealthy women, is getting a little public exposure now that Mamie Eisenhower is a guest.

Chances are the ordinary working girl will never enjoy the lush, yet vigorous, life of this resort. The prices are a little steep for the average pocketbook—about $400 to $700 a week.

Even the First Lady is "on the cuff," as a special guest of Mrs. Elizabeth Arden Graham, the cosmetics manufacturer who owns and operates the resort.

Mamie isn't going in for some of the "more vigorous exercises and treatments of the resort," said Sybil Ames, the hostess, who is known by the guests as "Amesie."

"But, she is taking some of the treatments, including the less vigorous massages, exercises, and a balanced diet," added the hostess. The main reason she is here is to rest and get some sunshine.

Local people best describe the effectiveness of the resort by telling the story about "the Chicago industrialist who sent his wife, who was getting a little too hippy and grey, out for a treatment. He got back a slim, young lady he didn't recognize."

In higher society, the treatments are described as "the regime of rest, diet and beauty which takes tension lines off faces and extra avoirdupois from weary figures."

A "course" at Arden's is an individual one. Everything operates on a timetable, and lights out are scheduled at 10 p. m.

A typical day for a guest might be breakfast—and meals are prepared to individual order as prescribed by the diet—followed by an hour's swim, an hour's exercise, and a steam bath. In the afternoon comes the sun bath, followed by an hour with the hair dresser, and then the luxurious pampering of a pedicure, manicure, facial.

Miteff Jumps To Fifth in Rina Ratings

NEW YORK — Young Alex Miteff of Argentina jumped from ninth place to fifth among heavy-weight contenders in the Ring Magazine's latest ratings today because of last Friday's gory victory over big Nino Valdes.

Miteff, 23 years old Tuesday, is now ranked just below the United States "big four"—Eddie Machen, Zora Folley, Willie Pastrano and Roy Harris.

Valdes of Cuba dropped from sixth to eighth because of his split-decision defeat at Madison Square Garden. Miteff now has 15 victories in 16 starts.

Coincidentally, big Mike DeJohn of Syracuse, N. Y., who tagged Miteff with his only defeat on Oct. 9 with a first-round knockout, was dropped from seventh clear out of the top 10 because he hadn't fought since then.

Ingemar Johansson of Sweden was boosted from 10th to seventh because of last Friday's impressive 13th-round kayo of Joe Erskine of Wales. Johansson also gained the Ring's "fighter of the month" award. Willi Besmanoff of Germany re-entered the top 10 at number nine because of his upset victory over Pat McMurry of Tacoma, Wash., who sank from fifth to 10th.

Davey Moore of Springfield, Ohio, became top contender for the featherweight crown because of another in his series of victories—a win over Mexican Fili Nava. Moore replaced Cherif Hamia of France, who dropped to second because of inactivity.

In the light heavyweight division, Canadian Yvon Durelle advanced a notch to second because of his kayo over Clarence Hinant. Yolande Pompey of Trinidad, B. W. I., slipped from second to third.

Young Gene (Ace) Armstrong of Elizabeth, N. J., entered the middleweight ratings at number 10 because of his 14th straight professional victory on a decision over Charley Joseph of New Orleans, who dropped from ninth out of the ratings.

In the lightweight class, veteran Orlando Zulueta of Cuba sank from number nine, out of the rankings, to make room for Dave Charney of England.

Ridgway Loses to Grayville, Galatia Defeats Pope County in Final Games

Two more local area schools completed their regular basketball schedule Tuesday night—with Ridgway losing to Grayville and Galatia defeating Pope County.

The Galatia at Pope County game, won by the Saline county crew 57-56, also was the final Greater Egyptian conference contest of the season. Galatia finished the GEC schedule with a 7-5 record and Pope County won one and dropped eleven.

Carlos King, Pope County's fine performer, almost carried his team to a big upset victory, but Galatia's balance proved too much. King scored exactly half of his team's 56 points on nine field goals and 10 free throws.

Galatia, shooting a cold 190 from the field, trailed throughout the first three periods, but rallied in the fourth quarter to edge out with a one-point, 57-56, decision.

Three Galatia players—Odle-17, Hill 15 and Davis 13—were in double figure scoring.

Ridgway lost an overtime game to Grayville, 56-52, on the Ridgway floor Tuesday night. The decision gave Ridgway a fine 22-3 record and Grayville has won 17 and dropped eight.

Larry Lingafelter was the hero for Grayville, hitting a 15-foot jump shot to tie the game 48-48 just as regulation time ran out. In the overtime Lingafelter hit four free throws to ice the verdict for the visitors. He had 18 markers in the game.

Roger Suttner of Ridgway was the game's top scorer with 28 points.

To the Voters of the City of Harrisburg:

It has come to my attention that there is a whispering campaign being put forward by certain persons who are opposed to my candidacy to the effect that should I be elected your commissioner, I will seek to re-organize the council and thus deprive certain employees of the jobs they now hold. This is a vicious falsehood and has no foundation in fact whatever.

I am a candidate for the office vacated by Don Williams, which is Finance Commissioner, and expect to fill that position if elected.

If I should be elected City Commissioner, I give you this solemn pledge that I will do my best to serve the interests of all the people of Harrisburg in the most effective way, of which I am capable. I believe, along with all other Christian men and women and good citizens, in having a clean city as free from vice and crime as it is humanly possible to make it, and if I am elected, I shall use whatever influence I have toward this end.

Orval Hudnell,
Candidate for Commissioner of the City of Harrisburg

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Diefenbacher, D.D.
(Written for NEA Service)

Yesterday is past and there is no return. We may retravel the roads along which we sped. We can walk the paths which we trod as children. Some may even relive the thrills which they experienced under similar circumstances. Yet there is no going back to undo the past.

Forward is the only way that man may go. Many experiences of days gone by may determine the ways we turn today. Yet we may again stumble and fall. Our own limited pictures of the past are not enough to help us chart the future.

The light of Heaven, the helping hand of Christ, the redeeming power of the Cross, and the love of the Father must be coupled with our minds and souls as we make our decisions to go forward.

XXVI
Major Ross Ashland came hurrying through the mist, nodding to Sebastian and Sam, but putting his words at Henry Gallatin.

"Colonel Wheaton's compliments, Mr. Gallatin. The colonel anticipates a considerable number of wounded and forsores the need of your ranch house as a temporary hospital. May we count on that?"

"Of course," said Henry Gallatin quietly. "I'll help you get things in shape."

"Major," asked Sebastian, "where's Phil?"

The major jerked an uneasy head toward the lava plain.

Out on the lava plain, Lt. Phil Ashland was going into his first action in as sound a frame of mind as could be expected of one of his age and temperament.

Almost immediately the lava began showing its fangs. Flinty spines, hidden in stunted sagebrush, caught at unwary feet and sent men sprawling. Pot holes yawned suddenly where footing had been solid a stride or two before.

Crevice, masked and treacherous, waited like the open jaws of some sinister trap, and in one of these a trooper found his battle ended before a single shot was fired. The crevice tripped him, and with his foot still locked in the jaws of lava, his leg snapped cleanly as he fell. His cry of pain was but the first of the voiced agonies to come.

Ever the way grew more tortuous. Men, their progress limited to what they could edge around, or crawl or climb over, began losing contact with fellow troopers on either hand, and so found themselves alone in the fog, fearfully alone.

Came the first gunshot, sounding hollow and unreal off to the left of Lt. Phil Ashland and the men of his platoon. But it was real enough, for over there a lanky, hatchet-faced civilian volunteer crumpled down, a bright froth of crimson bubbling at his lips as he coughed his life away.

The gun that killed him had flared pale in the fog not five yards in front of him, and neither he,

before he died, nor any other of his group, saw anything of the cunningly hidden Modoc warrior who had done for him.

That single shot seemed a signal for others. There was no concerted volley fire, just a rippling of reports scattered through the fog, some round and solid and close at hand, others muffled and faint with distance.

All along that stumbling, wavering skirmish line, men began going down, some silently, slugged to instant oblivion by a deadly bullet delivered at point-blank range. Others, wounded, set up their thin crying for aid.

A gun flared in the fog, the report blasting—so it seemed to Phil Ashland—almost in his face. But it was a trooper, pushing up beside him through the gray-white froth of the mists who grunted under heavy impact, spun around and fell spread-eagled, flat on his back, his dead eyes staring up in a faintly bewildered astonishment.

Shaken, Phil threw an answering shot with his revolver, but had no idea where or what he hit, if anything. He turned to shout an order to his men, found none of them in sight. He yelled, ordering them to reply, to keep contact. There was no answer. Except for the dead trooper lying at his feet, he was completely alone, the dank mists swirling about him, his sense of direction faulty and uncertain.

He fought back a faint thread of panic, orienting himself by the increasing sound of battle, by the thumping cacophony of the guns; guns out ahead and to either side of him, as troopers began shooting back at those mocking, deadly muzzle flashes, seeing nothing more substantial for a target. Then also, there were the bugles, blasting their fog-muffled brassiness from both east and west, now reflecting a worried, uncertain urgency.

On the heels of a particularly smothered, blunted gun report not far from Phil, a man cried and cried again in wild agony, then went abruptly silent. Right after, there was a sudden floundering of approach and a trooper came lunging through a thicket of cherry brush. At sight of Phil he reared to a stop, jamming his rifle forward. The muzzle of the weapon was scarcely a foot from Phil's face, and he knocked it aside with a desperately warding arm barely before it blasted flame and report.

The licking flame, the smash of report so close to his head, staggered Phil Ashland. When he recovered and caught his balance he tongue-whipped the trooper savagely, recognizing him as one of his own.

"God's witness, Lieutenant sir, I had no idea. This fog—they—them Modocs! They just killed Jess Parker. We were hunkered down, Jess and me. We were lost. We were tryin' to figger where the rest of the boys were, so we could join 'em. This fog, sir! Then this gun goes off, almost right under us, seemed to me. The slug plumb lifted Jess, then dropped him. I never heard a man holler that way before in my life. Then, just as quick, he wasn't hollerin' no more. Old Jess was dead—!"

Recalling the dreadful moment, his terror coming back, the trooper was wild again and plainly ready to bolt. Phil caught hold of him, swung him around and hit him hard across the shoulders with a clenched fist, giving harsh order. "None of that, none of that! Get hold of yourself. Stick close to me!"
